

SGF - DEVELOPING

Security Governance Framework

Governance as a first-class system property, designed in rather than bolted on.

VISION

Governance bolted on after launch is theater. The Security Governance Framework treats accountability and provenance as structural properties of a system - present in the design, enforced by the architecture, and visible in the record - so that control is something the system has rather than something a policy claims.